We live in a world of chaos. There is so much to distract and trouble us. Most of us carry a burden of stress weighing heavily on our hearts.

In the presence of the living God, there is peace.

The way people treat one another can be so very ugly. There is so much to make us sorrowful and angry. So much to resent. Many of us carry terrible burdens of hurt, pain, and discontent.

In the presence of the living God, there is beauty.

If you ask the average person how they are doing, many will tell you, "I'm tired," or "I'm exhausted." The burdens of business can wear us down and burn us out. We sleep without feeling refreshed, and recreate without being renewed.

In the presence of the living God, there is rest.

This world is full of the unexpected and inescapable. What is there about today that we can be absolutely certain will be there tomorrow? Finances fail, relationships unravel, and even our own bodies can betray us and become sick.

In the presence of the living God, there is stability.

How can I know I am safe? How can I ever be certain that a stranger will not suddenly mistreat me, or that an accident won't befall me? In this world, where unfortunate things seem to happen every day, how can I be sure that I won't be the person holding the bag today?

In the presence of the living God, there is security and safety.

If you haven't recognized it yet, these paragraphs I'm writing are the voice of anxiety and fear. If you want to listen to stuff like that, it will always be available to you, because Satan never sleeps. He will tell you lies and half truths, and he will kill your soul if you listen to him.

But you don't have to listen to him.

Because any time that you want to, you can step into the presence of the living God. He is always available. God is always with you, and watches over you. In him is everything that you need for life and godliness, and he is willing to share the riches of his righteousness with you.

Jesus called out and said, "Come to me, all of you who are laid up with terrible loads and carrying heavy burdens. I will sooth your minds, and teach you how to let all that go, so that you heart can at last unwind. Learn to live the way that I do - hear my teachings and see my example and drink it in. Because my way of living doesn't include falling for the arrogant traps of this world, and my heart is close to God. The way of life I'll give you is one you'll find easy, and you'll be able to carry the load I'll give you.

Jesus invites us into the presence of the living God. Come, he says, be with me. Come pray and let the burdens go. And you will find rest for your souls. In the presence of the living God is everything we really need.
